Savings accounts compared: SBI vs Bank of Baroda vs ICICI vs HDFC Bank   You can earn an interest in the range of 3.5-6% on your savings accounts, depending on the amount and the bank Kotak Mahindra Bank has lowered rate of interest on savings account deposits of up to ?1 lakh to 4.5% Livemint Updated26 Apr 2019, 02:19 PM IST All the major banks including SBI, Bank Of Baroda, Kotak Mahindra Bank, HDFC and ICICI Bank offer their customers several variations of savings accounts.(AFP) A savings account is one of the basic financial products that everyone must have. All the major banks including State Bank of India (SBI), Bank Of Baroda (BoB), Kotak Mahindra Bank, HDFC and ICICI Bank offer their customers several variations of savings accounts. These are just basic savings accounts where you can leave your money and earn an interest in the range of 3.5-6%, depending on the amount and the bank. The interest amount then gets credited to the customer on a quarterly basis, according to Reserve Bank of India (RBI) rules. Here are the savings account interest rates for major Indian banks: SBI: The State Bank of India, the largest one, offers its customers 3.50% interest rates on savings deposit balance of up to ?1 crore. Above ?1 crore, the interest rate levied on savings balance is 4% per annum. Following the 25bps reduction in repo rate by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) on 4 April, SBI’s cash credit and overdraft rate will be reduced by 25bps with effect from 1 May. The savings bank rate also stands revised to 3.5% for balances up to ?1 lakh and 3.25% for above ?1 lakh. Kotak Mahindra Bank: Private lender Kotak Mahindra Bank has cut the interest rate on savings account deposits of up to ?1 lakh. The rate of interest has been lowered to 4.5% from 5% earlier, according to the bank’s website. The revision in interest rate came into effect from 15 April 2019. The interest rate on savings account deposits on balance above ?1 lakh and up to ?1 crore remains unchanged at 6%. Similarly, the interest rate on savings accounts balance of above ?1 crore remains steady at 5.5%. Bank of Baroda: Bank of Baroda (BoB), which has become the second largest public sector bank after SBI following its amalgamation with Bengaluru-based Vijaya Bank and Mumbai-based Dena Bank, offers an interest rate of 3.50% to 4.00% on savings account. HDFC Bank: HDFC Bank is offering an interest rate of 3.50% per annum (p.a.) on savings deposit balance below ?50 lakh. Above this amount, HDFC levies an interest rate of 4% p.a. ICICI Bank: ICICI Bank, too like HDFC, gives its customers the same range of interest rates. For account balance below ?50 lakh, the interest rate is 3.5% per annum. The interest rate of 4% for savings balance amount over ?50 lakh.

Summary:

India's aviation market expanding India, now the third-largest domestic aviation market globally, recorded a robust 15% year-on-year increase in air passenger traffic, handling 376 million passengers in FY24, according to a report by aviation advisory firm CAPA India. This growth highlights the resilience and expansion of the aviation sector despite challenges faced by several carriers in recent years. In the current financial year, domestic air traffic is projected to rise by 6-8%, reaching between 161 and 164 million passengers, while international traffic is expected to jump by 9-11% to between 75 and 78 million passengers by March 2025. India's domestic aviation penetration stands at just 10%, suggesting ample room for growth. To further boost connectivity, the government plans to extend its flagship Udega Desh ka Aam Nagrik (UDAAN) program for an additional 10 years, adding hundreds of new airports to the country's network. Despite this expansion, the Indian aviation market has seen several high- profile bankruptcies over the last decade, with Kingfisher Airlines, Jet Airways, and Go First all ceasing operations. These cases underscore the challenges airlines face, from high debt burdens and fluctuating fuel prices to aircraft leasing costs and capacity limitations.

Following this, the Consortium of Murari Lal Jalan and Florian Fritsch withdrew the appeal. "Until the shares of the corporate debtor (Jet Airways) are not issued to the successful resolution applicant (consortium), pass necessary directions requiring the MC (monitoring committee) lenders to transfer the sum of Rs 200 crore infused by SR (successful resolution applicant), in the share application account to an interest bearing escrow account," JKC had said in its plea before the NCLAT. The tribunal asked the JKC either to withdraw its plea or face dismissal, on which the consortium preferred to withdraw it. Jet Airways stopped flying in April 2019, and later the consortium emerged as the winning bidder under the insolvency resolution process. However, ownership transfer has been hanging fire amid continuing differences between lenders and consortiums.Earlier this year on March 12, the NCLAT has upheld the resolution plan of grounded carrier Jet Airways and approved the transfer of its ownership to the JKC. It was directed to pay Rs 350 crore for initiating the process of transfer. However, it paid only Rs 200 crore in cash and asked the lenders to adjust Rs 150 crore from the performance bank guarantee submitted by it. This was opposed by the lenders. however, NCLAT directed that this be adjusted. Again this was challenged before the SC by the MC and others, which set aside the NCLAT order and directed the JKC to deposit the money. ICICI Bank trumps HDFC Bank in valuation

Summary:

ICICI Bank trumps HDFC Bank in valuation GAINING MOMENTUM. At 2.3x one-year forward price to book, the lender beats HDFC Bank's core valuations by a small margin Hamsini Karthik Mumbai After over a decade, ICICI Bank's stock seems to be charting its way back on the league tables from a valu- ations standpoint. Trading at about 2.3x one-year forward price to book value, the core or standalone asking price of ICICI Bank seems to have overtaken HDFC Bank (2x FY25 price-to-book) by a small margin. In fact, reacting to the res ults announced on Saturday (aftermarket hours), ICICI Bank stock touched a 52-week high of 1,067.40 a share on Monday, and closed the day with gains of 2.1 per cent. Interestingly, it was the only stock in the BSE Bankex index which closed in the green on Monday, while the in- dex was down over 2 per cent in trade. Meanwhile, it is per- tinent to note that at a consol- idated level, valuations of ICICI Bank and HDFC Bank are around 2.5x one year for ward multiple, though conver gence in valuations is also hap- pening after over a decade. An overall improvement in eamings profile as evidenced in the recent Q3 results is aid- ing ICICI Bank. With the vis- ibility of financials a tad when compared to HDFC Bank, the former is anticipated to main- tain this valuation gap in the near term. What's working in ICICI Bank's favour is the sus- tained improvement in quality of loan growth, asset quality and return ratios (see table). That said, considering the macro environment, which is currently a bit tricky to second guess, it may be prudent to keep a tab on a few important aspects of the bank's financials. LOAN COMPOSITION Retail loans account for 54 per cent of the bank's loan book. This has helped the bank to comfortably keep its net in- terest margin or NIM (meas- ure of profitability) stay up- wards of 4 per cent. In Q3, NIM fell to 4.4 per cent, down 22 basis points year-on-year. The fall may have been sharper had the loan growth not been aided by the unsecured seg ICICI Bank ments. While the bank in- creased its interest rates in some of these categories to factor in higher risk weights, seen against the continued cautious commentary from the Reserve Bank of India and increasing retail slippages, how the bank's loan composi tion evolves in the near term needs to be watched. To put things in perspect ive, retail slippages increased from 41.59 billion in Q3 FY23 to €54.82 billion in Q3 FY24, up 31.8 per cent year-on-year, marking the highest jump in slippages in the last four quar- ters. Even excluding 6.17 bil- lion of slippages, which ac crued from Kisan credit card portfolio, slippages in the re- tail space rose to 48.66 bil- lion, indicating a jump of about 17 per cent year-on-year. That said, cushioned by growth, retail NPAs have been range bound at 1.5-1.7 per cent, with Q3 retail gross NPA at 1.65 per cent. PROFITABILITY For a bank of ICICI's size and loan book diversity, NIM at over 4 per cent is appreciable, and this is one of the key factors that has propelled re- rating of valuations since 2020. However, if the bank were to curtail or slow down growth in its unsecured loan book, NIM would come under pressure. Unlike some of its peers, such as Axis Bank, Indusind Bank or RBL Bank, which are cushioned by a seasoned mi- crofinance book capable of compensating for a pull-back in other unsecured loans cat- egories, ICICI Bank doesn't have that buffer. For now, it's a tight rope walk on this front and NIM compression is a risk which the stock isn't factoring CAPITAL POSITION At 14.61 per cent capital ad- equacy ratio, ICICI Bank is well placed. However, com- pared to 16.07 per cent capital adequacy ratio in Q2 FY24 and 18.34 per cent in FY23, the rate of capital consumption seems to be quite high. Seen against HDFC Bank and Axis Bank's capital ad- equacy ratios of 18.39 per cent and 16.63 per cent, respect ively, that of ICICI Bank seems low. The bank raised 15,000 crore through qualified insti- tutional placements in August 2020, which boosted its capital by about 190bps.

Large-cap lenders vs mid-cap banks: Which ones should you pick for long term?

Summary:

Large-cap lenders vs mid-cap banks: Which ones should you pick for long term? As investors weigh their options in the banking sector, the choice between blue-chip lenders and mid-cap ones has become a pivotal decision. Pranati Deva Published19 Jul 2024, 06:36 PM IST Large-cap lenders vs mid-cap banks: Which ones should you pick for long term? Although the banking sector has lagged behind the Indian benchmark Nifty index over the past 6 to 12 months, it is well-positioned for substantial long-term growth, driven by India's largely underbanked population. In 2024, the Nifty Bank index has risen over 8 percent year-to-date, trailing the benchmark Nifty's almost 13 percent increase. Meanwhile, over the past year, the Nifty Bank index has gained over 14 percent, compared to the Nifty's approximate 24 percent rise. Within the banking sector, private banks have undergone a more pronounced correction compared to their public sector counterparts. Nevertheless, analysts expect a recovery for the overall banking sector in the near future. So between blue-chip lenders and mid-cap banks, which ones should you pick for the long term?   Also Read | SBI vs HDFC Bank: Which blue-chip lender should you pick for long term? Constituents Among banking stocks, large-cap lenders have witnessed mixed returns. ICICI Bank and Axis Bank have risen 25 percent and 17.5 percent, respectively in 2024 YTD. Meanwhile, Punjab National Bank and SBI have also advanced 22 percent and 38 percent, respectively. Bank of Baroda also added over 8 percent each. However, IndusInd Bank shed over 10 percent, HDFC Bank was down 6 percent and Kotak Bank declined 5 percent in this period. Mid-cap banks have also given similar returns but delivered better performance than large-cap ones. Indian Overseas Bank is the top gainer, up almost 51 percent, followed by Punjab & Sind Bank, which rallied over 48 percent and Bank of Maharashtra, which jumped 46 percent. Federal Bank rose 23 percent and City Union Bank was up 4 percent this year so far. However, Bandhan Bank shed the most, down around 21 percent, followed by IDFC First Bank and RBL, down over 14 percent each. Blue-chip lenders or mid-cap banks? Which ones should you pick? Here's what experts say: With varying opinions from industry experts, the debate centers around stability, growth potential, and risk tolerance. This article summarises insights from key analysts to help investors make an informed decision.   Also Read | HCL Tech vs TCS: Which IT stock to buy after strong Q1 results 2024 Raj Gaikar, Research Analyst, SAMCO Securities, prefers large-cap lenders over mid-cap ones. Mid-cap lending companies are targeting underpenetrated niche segments, which are relatively riskier compared to the customer base of large-cap lenders. Given that, the market is currently overvalued and the mid-cap lender companies may face a correction, investors with low-risk tolerance should avoid investing in mid-cap lenders for now. Currently, large-cap lenders are undervalued and are likely to deliver better performance in the near future. However, investing in mid-cap lenders could help investors generate alpha over the long term. Related Stories Mamata Machinery IPO allotment date in focus. Private banks, we believe, are currently trading at attractive valuations due to their strong growth runway and steady performance delivery potential. This stability leads us to prefer larger banks over their mid-sized banking peers. However, among the mid-sized banks, we like Federal Bank. Jignesh Shial, Director - Research; Head of BFSI Sector at InCred Capital, as well emphasises a preference for large-cap banks. Large-cap lenders remain our preferred pick over mid-cap lenders as we believe it to be a safer bet given the rising concerns in smaller ticket lending. Ajit Mishra - SVP, Research, Religare Broking, also advised prioritising large-cap lenders over mid-cap ones. Given the current market conditions, investors should prioritise large-cap lenders over mid-cap and small-cap lenders. The latter are trading at high valuations, presenting significant risks in the event of market corrections. Large-cap lenders, on the other hand, offer greater stability, better risk management, and are well-equipped to handle regulatory changes. Moreover, large-cap banks have a consistent history of paying dividends and returning value to shareholders, making them a more prudent investment choice. Also Read | Tata Motors vs Tata Steel: Which Tata Group stock should you prefer in long term Vaibhav Jain, Head of Content & Education, Share.Market, suggested investors to maintain a focus on large-cap lenders. Lending is a high-beta business, meaning lenders tend to perform exceptionally well during economic expansions but can suffer significant losses during downturns. For those willing to take higher risks, investing in mid-cap lenders can yield substantial returns in good times but can also lead to severe losses in bad times. Smaller lenders have higher growth potential but also face significant asset quality issues. When comparing large-cap and mid-cap lenders, it's clear that mid-cap lenders inherently have more quality issues. They deal with higher costs of funds, higher yields on loans, and consequently, higher NPAs and provisions. This is reflected in the Quality factor scores, where large-cap lenders consistently outperform their mid-cap counterparts. Investing in mid-cap lenders would only be justifiable if they had strong Sentiment and Momentum factors. However, a close examination of these scores reveals that mid-cap lenders currently lack strong momentum and sentiment. Without these supportive factors, mid-cap lenders do not present a compelling case, as they offer no significant upside potential and lack protection against downside risks should economic conditions worsen. Therefore, it is suitable for investors to maintain a focus on large-cap lenders. These institutions offer more stability, better quality, and sufficient upside potential without the excessive risks associated with mid-cap lenders. Also Read | TVS Motor vs Bajaj Auto: Which auto stock should you pick for long term? Atul Parakh - CEO, Bigul, advocates for a balanced investment approach. Investors should consider a mix based on their risk profile. Large-cap lenders are generally more stable with lower volatility, better placed to weather economic cycles, and often have stronger balance sheets. Mid-cap lenders typically offer higher growth potential, may offer better returns in bullish markets, and are often more nimble in adapting to market changes. A balanced approach might involve a core allocation to largecaps for stability, with some mid-cap exposure for growth potential. The ratio would depend on individual risk tolerance and market conditions. The choice between large-cap and mid-cap banks largely depends on individual risk tolerance and investment goals. While mid-cap banks may offer higher growth potential, they come with increased volatility. On the other hand, large-cap lenders, generally provide greater stability and consistent performance. For investors seeking safety and reliable returns, large-cap banks are the preferred option. Conversely, those willing to take on more risk for potential higher returns might consider mid-cap lenders, provided they closely monitor market conditions and the specific performance of these institutions.

All the major banks including State Bank of India (SBI), Bank Of Baroda (BoB), Kotak Mahindra Bank, HDFC and ICICI Bank offer their customers several variations of savings accounts. These are just basic savings accounts where you can leave your money and earn an interest in the range of 3.5-6%, depending on the amount and the bank. The interest amount then gets credited to the customer on a quarterly basis, according to Reserve Bank of India (RBI) rules. Here are the savings account interest rates for major Indian banks: SBI: The State Bank of India, the largest one, offers its customers 3.50% interest rates on savings deposit balance of up to ?1 crore. Above ?1 crore, the interest rate levied on savings balance is 4% per annum. Following the 25bps reduction in repo rate by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) on 4 April, SBI’s cash credit and overdraft rate will be reduced by 25bps with effect from 1 May. The savings bank rate also stands revised to 3.5% for balances up to ?1 lakh and 3.25% for above ?1 lakh. Kotak Mahindra Bank: Private lender Kotak Mahindra Bank has cut the interest rate on savings account deposits of up to ?1 lakh. The rate of interest has been lowered to 4.5% from 5% earlier, according to the bank’s website. The revision in interest rate came into effect from 15 April 2019. The interest rate on savings account deposits on balance above ?1 lakh and up to ?1 crore remains unchanged at 6%. Similarly, the interest rate on savings accounts balance of above ?1 crore remains steady at 5.5%. Bank of Baroda: Bank of Baroda (BoB), which has become the second largest public sector bank after SBI following its amalgamation with Bengaluru-based Vijaya Bank and Mumbai-based Dena Bank, offers an interest rate of 3.50% to 4.00% on savings account. HDFC Bank: HDFC Bank is offering an interest rate of 3.50% per annum (p.a.) on savings deposit balance below ?50 lakh. Above this amount, HDFC levies an interest rate of 4% p.a. ICICI Bank: ICICI Bank, too like HDFC, gives its customers the same range of interest rates. For account balance below ?50 lakh, the interest rate is 3.5% per annum. The interest rate of 4% for savings balance amount over ?50 lakh.

On-year growth was in double digits for the first six months post- -merger, led by wider distribution net- work and reduction in pro- cessing turnaround time to nearly a third of the pre-mer- ger rate. In Q3 FY24, the home loan HDFC BANK GOING UP. HDFC Bank's CASA deposits grew by 2.2% sequentially to 8.4-lakh crore as of December 2023 REUTERS portfolio grew 3.6 per cent on quarter, the highest among peers, to nearly 6.8-lakh crore, said Arvind Kapil, Coun- try Head, Mortgage Banking, Home Loan, LAP, HDFC Bank. "Pre-merger, about 30-35. per cent of incremental dis- bursals were to customers with an HDFC Bank savings account. This has reached about 80 per cent, post-mer- ger. The home loan business has become both an asset and a liability generator and is grow- ing sizeably. This leads to a higher stickiness quotient and a stronger customer connec- tion for a longer duration," he said. HDFC Bank's CASA de- posits grew by 2.2 per cent se- quentially to 8.4-lakh crore as of December 2023. The CASA ratio improved to 37.7 per cent from 37.6 per cent over the same period. MARKET SHARE The bank's market share has grown by 20 per cent on incre- mental disbursals post- mer- ger, aided by erstwhile HDFC's strength in connecting with customers, which has helped both in terms of sales turnover and cross-selling. The bank is also focussing on the self-em- ployed segment, for which it has launched and expanded its product basket through bank- ing surrogates as well as GST s for better assess- programmesofiles. ment of HDFC Bankis in the process of converting all of HDFC's service centres to branches in a phased manner, and the mortgage team will become relationship managers. It also has plans to launch a 'straight through journey' for home re-furbishment loans by mid- March, and a 'Home Saver' product by April.

Bad loans tend to rise in bad times, says HDFC Bank

Summary:

Bad loans tend to rise in bad times, says HDFC Bank Mumbai, July 21: Coun- try's second largest private sector lender HDFC Bank has played down fears of ris- ing bad loans, saying it is not 'unrealistic' for some uptick in non-performing assets given the economic gloom. "To some extent, some in- crease in non-performing assets (NPAs) is something we don't regard as unrealis-tic," said executive director Paresh Sukthankar. "High interest rates, tight liquidity and currency volatility, all take a toll when the growth is sluggish," he said, adding the quality of the bank's over 2.50 lakh crore loan book is "reason- ably stable and healthy". The economy has lost 4 percentage points on the growth front in recent times, he said. Sukthankar also said movement in NPAs is within a narrow range which is the reality of doing business duringa slowdown in overall growth. Investors expressed con- cern following the release of the city-headquartered bank's quarterly numbers for the April-June period on Wednesday, which showed a marginal increase in NPAs. The stock lost up to 3.5% Paresh Sukthankar intra-day after the result an- nouncement, though it re- couped the losses Thursday. "If you look at the incre-mental NPAs, a little over half of them came from reg- ular retail NPAs and the re- maining 45% were whole-sale in nature but were from a handful of accounts...But I don't think, there is any trend in that," he said. In the first quarter, while gross NPAS remained flat at 1%, net NPAs rose marginally to 0.3% from 0.2% a year earlier. Sukthankar said one has to keep in mind the expan- sion in the asset book while looking at gross NPA levels. "Our NPAs at 1% or 1.1%, which have been there in the past 12 to 18 months, is lower than our historical average," Sukthankar said. PTI

Summary:

ICICI Bank junks ranks, scraps exec symbols Flattens Top Mgmt Structure By Removing All Designations Of Deputy GM And Above Mayur.Shetty @timesgroup.com Mumbai: In a major HR shift, ICICI Bank has flattened its top management by getting rid of all grades of deputy ge- neral manager (GM) and abo- ve. Management executives are now known by their role and there are no grade-based benefits. The bank has also got rid of all symbols of hie- rarchy no longer can anyo- ne guess an executive's senio- rity based on the size of his car or access to the executive dining room. This is a big shift for a bank where even the internet bandwidth earlier depended on seniority. The move will impact over 400 executives of the level of deputy GM, joint GM, GM and senior GMs. This is the first major change in HR policy since Sandeep Bakhshi took charge as CEO last year. "We have recently reorga- nised ourselves to work toget- her seamlessly across func- tional and departmental bo- undaries in order to maximi- se our share of market opportunities. We have mo- ved to role-based designa- tions from grade-based struc- tures and empowered our te- ams at the local level," Bakh- shi told analysts recently. "If we have to be agile and nimble-footed, we cannot re- main a hierarchical organisa- tion. Because of the grades, these structures and levels got hard-coded and there was a sense of hierarchy," said group HR chief T K Srirang. Following the shift, the bank will have the flexibility to mo- ICICI Bank will now have role- based designations instead of a grade-based structure So even a deputy GM can be assigned a senior GM's role, removing all sense of hierarchy There won't be any regular promotions automatically loyees is that there will be no automatic promotion based on the period of service. "In any organisation in India, there is an expectation that every three-four years there would be a promotion. Now, instead of sitting in the same role and aspiring for a higher role, executives will have to aspire for a new role to move ahead," he said. Younger employees may land more responsible roles earlier, with equivalent power & authority > Overall, the business structure has also been BIG CHANGES rejigged to reflect ve an erstwhile deputy GM in- to a role that used to earlier be filled in by a senior GM. "This has given us the op- portunity to move younger pe- ople and give them roles ahead of time," he said. Business he- ads will have more flexibility as their power and authority would be related to the role. Earlier, a GM who headed are gion would have higher sanc- tioning authority than a depu- ty GM in the same role. The other impact for emp- a customer-centric ecosystem The second big change is that business has been orga- nised around a 'customer eco- system'. What this means is that for a set of customers, there would be a head with a composite target to offer mul- tiple products from different verticals. "The ecosystems will coexist with the business verticals. For instance, a cre- dit card person will report to the corporate team, but will draw expertise from the verti- cal," said Srirang.

ICICI Bank seeks to digitise 100 villages in 100 days

Summary:

ICICI Bank seeks to digitise 100 villages in 100 days TIMES NEWS NETWORK è Mumbai: ICICI Bank on Mon- -day said it will run a project to transform 100 villages across the country into digital villages in as many days. The project S e envisages enabling vil- 1 lagers to use digital channels for banking 3 and payment transactions. ' ICICI Bank will open acco unts for all and enable cashless payments to retail stores thro- - ugh messaging-based applica- r tions that can run on basic pho 1 4 nes. "Besides creating a cash- less payment system, we will provide vocational training and credit linkages to make villages digital," said Chanda Koch- har, MD & CEO, ICICI Bank. She added that the bank would draw from its experiences in Akodara village in Guja- rat's Sabrakanta district where it ran a pilot pro- ject on digital villages. In the next 100 days, the bank will provide vo- cational training to 10,000 underprivileged villa- gers from largely agrarian sta- tes The announcement is part of the bank's continuing effort to provide a digital ecosystem across the country, including rural India, in the wake of de monetisation of high value cur- rencies, Kochhar said. To provi- de mobile banking access to the underprivileged, the bank plans to use SMS and USSD banking solutions. USSD (Unst- ructured Supplementary Ser- vice Data) is a technology that enables communication betwe- en the mobile phone and the bank's servers in a manner si- milar to how a mobile user checks his balance talktime. In the first phase, ICICI Bank will use tablet-based banking and Aadhaar-based e-KYC to help villagers open accounts without submitting physical documents. All adults in the villages will ha- ve savings accounts, which will be linked to Aadhaar to enable direct transfer of go- vernment benefits.

Summary:

HDFC Bank plans to launch new mobile app, site by Mar Shayan Ghosh shayan.g@livemint.com MUMBAI H DFC Bank Ltd, India's largest private lender, plans to launch a revamped mobile app and an internet banking website by March, over five years after an upgraded app faced glitches and had to be rolled back in a week. The bank will start a closed user group trial by December and then roll it out to other Anjani Rathor, chief digital officer, HDFC Bank. users by the end of March, Anjani Rathor, chief digital offi- cer of the bank, said in an inter- view. "We have taken feedback from customers. It will be a lot more intuitive and simpler to use," said Rathor, who joined the bank in February 2020 after 12 years at Bharti Airtel. After facing technology troubles in 2018 and 2019, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) in December 2020 curbed fresh digital launches and ordered it to halt issuing new credit cards. These were finally lifted in March 2022, allowing the bank to roll out products under its 'Digital 2.0' plan. The bank said in its 2019-20 annual report that Digital 2.0 is about reimagin- ing its digital plat- forms, "providing the customer with a frictionless financial experi- ence". 1,400 people in core technol- ogy roles, with the team strength now at about 3,100. A large part of the new app and internet banking website has been developed in-house, although it uses components from partners as well. The bank has changed the tech develop ment model with internal full-stack developers building digi- tal products, said Rathor. "They are all technologists folding their sleeves and writ- ing codes. They are full-stack developers, database adminis- trators, among others," Rathor said. A large part of the new app has been developed in-house, although it uses components from partners as well on WhatsApp. It has about 10 million customers registered on WhatsApp banking. HDFC Bank's customer base stood at 85 million as of 30 June. He said that similarly, when a customer calls the revamped call centre, there is an AI (artifi- cial intelligence)-driven bot which responds, the same WhatsApp bot that speaks in one's preferred language. The call centre bot can also solve 200 simple transactions. "For other complex transac- tions, a customer has to press a few buttons (interactive voice response or IVR). In the last few years, Rathor said, the bank has changed the way it looked at its digital offer- ings, taking control of them through in-house develop- ments instead of solely relying on external partners. Since 2020-21, the bank has added channels, and through WhatsApp banking, one could have a more meaningful conversation than before," he said. According to Rathor, the bank has compiled the reasons why a customer wants to reach out and enabled it on chat, allowing people to undertake over 200 types of transactions This, he said, is going to aid the bank in offering customer care at scale 24/7, even when the volumes keep going up. "Now, the bots are also going to become smarter, and since I know why an agent has to step in, I could enable the bot to respond to that," Rathor said. The bank's CEO Sashidhar Jagdishan told shareholders in the latest annual report the len- deris in the midst of a technol- ogy transformation exercise, focussing on building the "bank of the future as well as running the bank".

HDFC Bank vs ICICI Bank vs SBI: Price targets, outlook ahead of Q3 earnings

Summary:

HDFC Bank vs ICICI Bank vs SBI: Price targets, outlook ahead of Q3 earnings HDFC Bank vs ICICI Bank vs SBI: The three stocks are top picks of major brokerages as they share their outlook and Q3 earnings for Indian lenders.   Aseem Thapliyal Updated Jan 09, 2025, 11:24 AM IST   Here's a look at what brokerages said ahead of the earnings of HDFC Bank, ICICI Bank and SBI. Shares of major lenders HDFC Bank, ICICI Bank and State Bank of India (SBI) are in focus ahead of their December quarter earnings set to be announced in the near future. The three stocks are top picks of major brokerages as they share their outlook and Q3 earnings for Indian lenders. Global brokerage Jefferies likes private banks over PSU banks and larger banks over smaller banks. It has ICICI Bank, Axis Bank and HDFC Bank as its top picks. The brokerage has upgraded Kotak Mahindra Bank from Hold to Buy as it finds valuation are more reasonable. Among public sector lenders, it continues to prefer SBI & has downgraded Bank of Baroda from Buy to Hold as its high loan-to-deposit ratio (LDR) and slower deposit growth may limit growth & rerating catalysts. Here's a look at what brokerages said ahead of the earnings of HDFC Bank, ICICI Bank and SBI. ICICI Bank Motilal Oswal has a target price of Rs 1,550 for the lender. "ICICI Bank has consistently delivered strong performance, achieving 17% CAGR in loans over FY22-FY24, driven by Retail, BB, and SME segments. The bank’s focus on leveraging data analytics for onboarding and credit assessment has been pivotal," said Motilal Oswal.   For Q3, Motilal Oswal expects business growth to remain healthy, cost ratios to remain elevated and margins likely to see a mild moderation. It expects asset quality ratio to be steady for the bank. Jefferies has a price target of Rs 1,600 on ICICI Bank. The global brokerage believes ICICI Bank is well-placed to deliver on growth and quality with healthy deposit growth and has lowest loan-to-deposit ratio (LDR) among private banks that can aid industry leading credit growth. It expects asset quality trends to be manageable as bank has focused on better rated customers in unsecured and SME loans. "ICICI Bank is among our top picks with revised price target of Rs 1,600 (from Rs 1,550) based on 2.7 times December-26 adjusted PB & value of stake in subs," said Jefferies. SBI Motilal Oswal said SBI delivered consistent loan growth of 16% YoY in FY24 and 15.3% YoY in 1HFY25. Retail loans (36% of portfolio) grew modestly, with profit and loss showing recovery. "Corporate and SME segments have shown strong growth, with GNPA in SMEs reducing significantly to 3.6% in 2QFY25. A robust credit pipeline of Rs 6 trillion positions SBI for 14-15% growth, outpacing systemic credit expansion." It has a target price of Rs 1,000 on the stock. Motilal Oswal expects slightly elevated provisions in 3Q. It expects cost ratios to be slightly higher with asset quality expected to remain contained. Margins are expected to stay largely flat, added Motilal Oswal. Jefferies has a price target of Rs 970 on SBI. Jefferies believes SBI is well-placed to grow loans as leverages on lower LDR, improvement in deposit growth and stable asset quality. The key deliverable for the management will be to improve deposit growth from 9% now towards 11-13% over next 12-18 months to aid sustainable credit growth, it said adding that valuations are reasonable at 1.3x FY26 adjusted PB and 10x PE. The brokerage rates the stock as Buy with revised price target of Rs 970 (from Rs 1,030) based on 1.4 Dec-26 adjusted PB & value of stake in subsidiary. HDFC Bank Motilal Oswal said HDFC Bank is navigating post-merger short-term challenges, including high CD ratios and inherited high-cost borrowings, with a strategic focus on deposit mobilization and balance sheet optimisation. It has a price target of Rs 2,050. Motilal Oswal expects cost ratios to remain under control. Margins are likely to remain broadly stable. Asset quality is likely to remain broadly stable. Guidance for credit growth will be a key monitorable. Jefferies has a price target of Rs 2120. Jefferies believes HDFC Bank will continue to see softer credit growth as management tapers off LDR towards 90% mark by FY27 from 100%. "We have factored 15% CAGR in deposits and 11% in loans over next three years and arrive at LDR of 92% by Mar-27. Having underperformed peers and the market, valuations are comparable with ICICI Bank (2.4x FY26 adjusted PB and 15x PE) so we now include it among our top-3 picks with Buy rating with revised price target of Rs 2,120 (from Rs2,020) based on 2.3 Dec-26 APB and value of stake in subs," said Jefferies.

Ford and Mazda issue "Do Not Drive" alerts for 457,000 cars

Date: 21-08-2024, Publication: knnindia.co.in, Journalist / Agency: , Edition: Internet, Supplement: aaa, Page No:

Summary:

Ford Motor Co. and Mazda North American Operations Tuesday issued "Do Not Drive" advisories for owners of certain vehicles who have not yet had their cars fixed after several Takata-airbag recalls. The two automakers are urging customers of recalled vehicles equipped with non-desiccated Takata air bags to stop driving the cars immediately and get their faulty airbags repaired or replaced, according to a notice posted by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. "If you have one of these vehicles, do not drive it until the repair is completed and the defective air bag is replaced," the NHTSA said. The Ford advisory comes after three previously announced recalls (15S21, 17S42, and 19S01) beginning in 2015, involving several vehicle lines equipped with Takata non-desiccated airbag inflators. "The age of these vehicles makes it increasingly possible that a part inside the airbag will explode and expel sharp metal fragments during a crash. This could cause serious injury or death to the driver or passengers," the automaker said in its advisory notice. Ford's warning covers 374,290 of the following model year 2004-2014 vehicles previously recalled: 2004-2006 Ford Ranger trucks 2005-2014 Ford Mustang vehicles 2005-2006 Ford GT vehicles 2006-2012 Ford Fusion, Mercury Milan, Lincoln MKZ / Zephyr vehicles 2007-2010 Ford Edge and Lincoln MKX vehicles 2007-2011 Ford Ranger trucks Mazda's warning covers 82,893 of the following model year 2003-2015 vehicles previously recalled: 2004 – 2009 B-Series 2003 – 2013 Mazda6 2006 – 2007 MazdaSpeed6 2004 – 2006 MPV 2004 – 2011 RX-8 2007 – 2012 CX-7 2007 – 2015 CX-9

Summary:

BMW on Tuesday said it is recalling 720,796 vehicles in North America because they are equipped with an electric water pump that may short circuit as a result of faulty installation, posing a fire hazard. According to recall documents posted by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, "An improperly sealed electrical connector on the water pump may be exposed to water and short circuit." More specifically, "blowby-liquid from the positive crankcase ventilation system may collect on the intake air hose," and eventually "drip onto the plug connector," potentially seeping in, causing an electrical shortage. "This could increase the risk of a thermal event and, in rare cases, a fire," the recall states. The recall applies to the following BMW models: MAKE MODEL YEAR   BMW 228I 2014-2016 BMW 228XI 2014-2016 BMW 328I 2012-2016 BMW 328XI 2012-2016 BMW 428I 2014-2016 BMW 428XI 2015-2016 BMW 528I 2012-2016 BMW X1 2012-2015 BMW X3 2013-2017 BMW X4 2015-2018 BMW X5 2016-2018 BMW Z4 2012-2016 Dealers will replace the water pump and plug connector and install a protective shield, free of charge. Notification letters will be mailed to vehicle owners on October 4. Owners may contact BMW customer service at 1-800-525-7417. BMW's number for the recall is "24V-608." Owners can also contact NHTSA's safety hotline at 1-888-327-4236 (toll-free at 1-800-424-9153) or go to www.nhtsa.gov for further information.
